With you can find idyllic islands and pristine beaches in Malaysia, seeing an orangutan up close in their natural habitat is probably the highlight of any visit. With so much to see and do, the 'Emerald of the Equator' definitely warrants a visit. Nestled away in the Indian Ocean, the glamorous getaway is renowned for its luxurious resorts, many of them with their own private island. Majestic to behold, the ancient Nabataean city is sure to be unlike anything you've seen before. Dominated and defined by the Himalayas, the mountain nation is home to many of the tallest peaks on Earth. As such, incredible historical and cultural landmarks are on show wherever you go. Offering up the perfect mix of beaches and culture, history, and nature, Sri Lanka has it all. Home to spectacular mountains, a gorgeous coastline, and lots of scenic sand dunes, Oman is a hidden gem just waiting to be discovered. This is because the mighty Khmer Empire built lots of amazing temples, monuments, and palaces around the country between the 9th and 15th centuries. Steamy jungle can also be found in Southeast Asia, as well as paradise islands and beautiful beaches. The largest continent on Earth, Asia stretches all the way from the shores of the Mediterranean Sea to the Pacific Ocean. Indonesia © Dreamstime Made up of more than 18,000 islands that span some 4,700 kilometers from east to west, Indonesia covers a huge area. What makes traveling around the peninsula so fascinating is that the nation boasts a rich and unique history, heritage, and culture. Others come to enjoy China's beautiful scenery that includes towering mountains, endless rice terraces, and the desolate Gobi Desert. Ranging from ancient temples to colonial-era forts, many of these can be found in the enthralling cities of Anuradhapura, Galle, and Kandy. Tucked away among these varied landscapes are millennia-old archaeological sites and colorful yet chaotic cities such as Mumbai and New Delhi. With picturesque paddy fields, jungle-clad mountains, and fabulous tropical islands for you to explore, Cambodia has something for everyone to enjoy. Its vast landmass encompasses everything from epic mountain ranges such as the Himalayas to the dry and desolate Arabian and Gobi deserts. Jordan © Dreamstime Due to its strategic location between Africa, Europe, and Asia, Jordan in the Middle East has long welcomed travelers and traders to its lands. Of these structures, the undoubted highlight is the awe-inspiring Angkor Wat. Deceptively mountainous, South Korea also has lots of marvelous national parks for you to explore, with beautiful islands and beaches hugging the shore. As its history dates back around 2,500 years, Sri Lanka has lots of impressive archaeological sites and historic and cultural landmarks to check out. While many people come to hike the Annapurna Circuit, Nepal also boasts a rich cultural heritage. For instance, its small, secluded sleepy settlements are in stark contrast to the teeming and chaotic capital of Jakarta. Its inviting waters make for some fantastic surfing, scuba diving, and snorkeling, with Boracay and North Palawan particularly great places to enjoy watersports. While the Great Wall of China is obviously its main attraction, the Terracotta Army in Xi'an and the Forbidden City in Beijing attract just as many people. Cambodia © Dreamstime Tucked away in between Thailand, Laos, and Vietnam in Southeast Asia, Cambodia is awash with astounding historical ruins and archaeological sites. As such, it is a fantastic place to go scuba diving or snorkeling, with lots of colorful coral reefs and shimmering shoals of fish to discover. Of these, Mount Everest stands head and shoulders above them all. Japan © Dreamstime Although it consists of almost 7,000 islands, most of Japan's main sights and tourist attractions can be found on Hokkaido, Honshu, Kyushu, and Shikoku. 4. While its fabulous beaches are one of its main attractions, the island has a rich history and culture for you to delve into. You'll find centuries-old palaces and temples alongside skyscrapers and gigantic shopping malls. While some islands are coated in lush rice fields or tropical rainforest, others are home to hidden lagoons and smoking volcanoes. While Petra is justifiably the main attraction, the Dead Sea and Wadi Rum's desert landscapes are also well worth exploring. As you can see, the archipelago has much more to offer than just sun, sea, and sand. Oman © Dreamstime Steeped in history, the Sultanate of Oman's unique culture, traditions, and heritage are visible wherever you go. Many also come to party in its beachside towns, visit idyllic islands such as Ko Tao, or enjoy the stunning scenery at Krabi. The only question is where to begin. It has, however, modernized rapidly. With so many different cultures and languages for you to delve into, the continent's dazzling diversity defies definition. 3. Its age-old traditions and customs remain, however. This explains why the vast majority of its large population is found in the densely populated cities that hug its long and indented coastline. With so many picture-perfect white-sand beaches for you to check out, this serene and secluded honeymoon destination is not to be missed out on. 8. 6. Vietnam © Dreamstime With so much astounding history, culture, and nature, Vietnam is one of Asia's most rewarding destinations. From temples to cuisine and history to wildlife, the world's second-most populous country has something for everyone. Ha Long Bay is another must-see sight due to its stunning seascape and breathtaking limestone islands. Regardless of where you go, Vietnam's fabulous cuisine is sure to be a treat. 13. While the futuristic metropolises of Tokyo and Yokohama are full of skyscrapers and neon lights, Kyoto and Nara instead boast traditional palaces and age-old temples. 2. 14. Dotted about its varied landscapes, you can find chaotic yet colorful cities, such as Cebu and the capital Manila. The most populous nation on Earth, China is home to many rapidly modernizing cities that are enthralling to visit. Besides the vibrant cities of Siem Reap and the capital Phnom Penh, Cambodia also boasts plenty of delightful nature. A continent of a country, China and its vast and varied landscapes, cities, and cultures could take a lifetime to explore. Sri Lanka © Dreamstime An increasingly popular tourist destination, Sri Lanka is set in the Indian Ocean just off the south of India. Unlike many of its neighbors, Oman hasn't erected any skyscrapers or modernized dramatically. The country encompasses lots of different landscapes, and its idyllic coastline hugs the South China Sea. Centuries-old temples, shrines, monasteries, and palaces dot the country, with Maya Devi Temple in Lumbini being the most famous. China © Dreamstime Dominating Asia in terms of both its size and population, China boasts one of the world's oldest civilizations. Covered in mountains and forests, the country is also home to some delightful nature and scenery. While its souks and medinas are captivating in their beauty, the country's desolate landscapes are no less alluring. 12. Maldives © Dreamstime Made up of 1,200 or so islands and atolls, the Maldives boasts some of the best and most breathtaking beaches in the world. As each country has its own unique history and heritage, Asia's many natural wonders and hidden treasures could take a lifetime to unravel. South Korea © Dreamstime The home of K-Pop and Kimchi, South Korean culture is currently very much in vogue around the world. Lying to the east of mainland Asia, the island nation is a fascinating place as old and new collide wherever you go. Indeed, the proud identity of its people and their welcoming nature is in part what makes the country so charming to visit. Lying in between the Andaman Sea and the Gulf of Thailand, its golden sands and underwater marvels attract hordes of people every year. In many ways, the archipelago defies definition. 9. 1. One of the most populous nations in the world, its customs, traditions, and cuisines also vary dramatically depending on where you go. As such, the nation is one of the most diverse places on Earth - whether that's in terms of people, culture, and languages or landscapes and wildlife. The safest country to visit in the region, Jordan's many charms and Middle Eastern hospitality will surely beckon you back in no time at all. 7. It is this diversity that makes it so mesmerizing to explore. Fittingly enough, it is often called 'the Land of Smiles.' While Bangkok has lots of fantastic cuisine and nightlife on offer, Chiang Mai and Chiang Rai are home to some of the nation's most famous temples. Malaysia © Dreamstime Consisting of Peninsular Malaysia and East Malaysia, this incredible country is home to some of the oldest rainforest on Earth. Nepal © Dreamstime One of the best places in the world to go trekking and mountaineering, Nepal is a breathtakingly beautiful country full of amazing scenery. 5. While each idyllic island in the archipelago appears more stunning than the last, the Maldives is also noted for its underwater riches. These are the four largest of them. 10. Known as the 'City of Temples' due to its many religious sites, the capital Kathmandu is not to be missed out on. It is here that the Buddha was born some 2,500 years ago. This represents a marked change, as for much of its history, it has been overlooked and outshone by its larger and more powerful neighbors China and Japan. Its national parks boast lots of fantastic trekking and wildlife in addition to the marvelous nature and scenery on show. The cultural make-up of the country is varied; while traveling around, you'll notice Spanish, American, and traditional influences, amongst others. The Philippines © Dreamstime As the Philippines are made up of over 7,000 different islands, it should come as no surprise to learn that it is a very popular beach holiday destination. In addition to its colossal size, Asia is remarkably home to more than half of the world's population. Set amid the desert and carved out of rock, it is undoubtedly the highlight of any visit to the country. Very multicultural and diverse, Malaysia's thriving cities and capital Kuala Lumpur are home to Chinese, Indians, and ethnic Malays. Of these, Jetau Island is the most popular to visit among locals and tourists alike. Thailand © Dreamstime Thanks to its breathtaking beaches, glittering temples, and welcoming population, Thailand is a very popular tourist destination. Amongst the modern skyscrapers, impressive historical and cultural landmarks can be found, and its restaurants serve up lots of delicious local cuisine. This means its desert oasis towns and the capital Muscat still exhibit lots of lovely old architecture, and their skyline has remained unchanged for centuries. Further afield, you can find wild jungle, picturesque paddy fields, and quiet and secluded towns and villages. While in Bali you can find beautiful beaches, Borneo has wonderful wildlife and awe-inspiring orangutans. Armies also passed through, and over the millennia, rulers and empires left behind crusader castles, Roman amphitheaters, and of course, Petra. Lying between the Indian and Pacific Oceans, its islands' habitats are just as diverse. 15. The picturesque coastal town of Hoi An is also well worth checking out, while the hill tribes around Sa Pa showcase some of the nation's cultural and ethnic diversity. Many visitors rent a motorbike and explore the Ho Chi Minh trail. 11. India © Dreamstime Home to one of the world's richest and oldest civilizations, India is awash with different cultures, religions, peoples, and traditions. While the Himalayas dominate the north, steamy jungle, picturesque tea plantations, and gorgeous beaches can be found in the rest of the country. This takes you from the colorful yet chaotic capital Hanoi to Ho Chi Minh city, giving you past the ancient capital of Hue on the way. In addition to this, Sri Lanka also has some spectacular scenery and incredible wildlife for you to enjoy.
